

ENTRÉE CAPITAL

To Whom it May Concern,

I am writing to highly recommend Tsachi Melamed of Innoventeam for conference, event, and summit planning and management. Tsachi recently led the planning and logistics for Entrée Capital's Pre-Seed Summit, and I can confidently say that the event would not have been the success it was without his hard work and dedication.

Tsachi is a skilled and organized event planner who consistently exceeded our expectations. He was able to handle all aspects of the event, from coordinating vendors and speakers, to managing the budget and timeline. He also has a great eye for detail and was able to anticipate and solve any issues that arose.

One of Tsachi's standout qualities is his ability to negotiate contracts and prices with vendors. He was able to secure competitive rates for all of the services we needed, while still maintaining high quality. He also handled all of the invoicing and payment processes after the event, ensuring that everything was settled in a timely and efficient manner. Furthermore, Tsachi is a team player and is able to work well with others. He is a great communicator and is able to effectively manage and delegate tasks to ensure that everything runs smoothly.

I have no doubt that Tsachi would be an asset to any corporate or private event, big or small. He has the skills, experience, and professionalism needed to ensure that any event is a success. I would highly recommend Tsachi for event planning and management and believe he would be an excellent choice for anyone looking for a reliable and skilled event planner.

Sincerely,

Fay Goldstein
Director of Marketing and Communications